

Gain price transparency into the cost of importing refined fuel to Mexico from benchmark U.S. markets

OPIS Mexico Fuels Report provides a pricing index for the full value chain of imported fuel to help inform smarter buying decisions.

Market Challenge

Uncertainty is a common denominator in Mexico's fuels market. Governmental policy changes continue to reverberate across the supply chain. OPIS provides fuel buyers and sellers with the unbiased price discovery and news analysis needed to make more profitable decisions during difficult times.

How We Help

OPIS Mexico Fuels Report delivers a daily index for gasoline, diesel, jet fuel and oxygenates that is sourced in the U.S. and landed in Mexico, revealing the true buildup cost of cross-border fuel shipments. Suppliers receive new indexes for pricing cargoes and for valuing RVP and Octane differences accurately between U.S. and Mexico fuel blends.

Benefits

- Identify the most accurate price point for each import area when securing contracts
- Discover daily price arbitrage between the U.S. Gulf Coast pipeline spot market and Pemex-posted wholesale prices
- Reference a price index for octane and RVP differentials between U.S. and Mexico delivered products
- Monitor freight rates for Mexico waterborne and rail shipments
- Receive timely news coverage of Mexican energy reform and infrastructure growth
